We Keep Bomb Till Peace Sure

By ROBERT G. NIXON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP) — The United States, Great Britain and Canada agreed today the atomic bomb secret would be kept until continued world peace is assured, but proposed an international exchange of basic scientific knowledge as a step toward banishing the scourge of war.

The Anglo-American nations made an appeal apparently directed at Russia for "co-operaion."

The Soviet nation, however, was not mentioned by name.

A joint "atomic energy declaration" by President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee of Britain and Premier King of Canada, proposed a United Nations commission to study and make recommendations for control of the bomb and to turn its potentialities of vast energy into peaceful benefit to mankind.

The Anglo-American leaders declared revelation of the atomic bomb secret in the present state of world unrest and distrust would be unwise and dangerous. They proposed a reciprocal interchange of basic scientific knowledge by all nations as a first step toward a guaranteed world peace.

"We trust that other nations will adopt the same policy, thereby creating an atmosphere of reciprocal confidence in which political agreement and co-operation will flourish," the declaration stated.

The joint communique, which was signed by the three government leaders was read to a news conference by the President in the presence of the Premiers, high government officials and a congressional delegation shortly after 11 o'clock this morning.

"We are not convinced that the spreading of the specialized information regarding the practical application of atomic energy, before it is possible to devise effective, reciprocal and enforcible safeguards acceptable to all nations, would contribute to a constructive solution of the problem of the atomic bomb," the joint communique declared.

"On the contrary, we think it might have the opposite effect.

"We are, however, prepared to share, on a reciprocal basis with others of the United Nations, detailed information concerning the practical industrial application of atomic energy just as soon as ef-

Jap Pearl Harbor Code Translated Too Late

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Japanese envoys in Washington reported to Tokyo the day before Pearl Harbor that they had been working with "influential" individuals behind their "frontal negotiations" with President Roosevelt and Sec. Hull.

This was disclosed today in the release by the congressional committee investigating the Pearl Harbor disaster of intercepted diplomatic messages sent by the Japanese between July 1 and Dec. 8, 1941.

Committee Counsel William D. Mitchell officially disclosed that the Japanese diplomatic code was broken in the summer of 1941 when he placed a 253-page printed copy of intercepted messages into the records as the public hearings into the disaster opened.

Hundreds pressed for vantage points in the Senate office building caucus room as the first session began.

Heated assertions by Republican Senators Ferguson of Michigan and Brewster of Maine that they hadn't had time to read the vast amount of material offered in evidence marked the start of the probe.

Rear Adm. Kimmel, naval commandant at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, sat in a front row seat. Near the witness stand was seated Maj.-Gen. Short, Army commander in Hawaii at the time of the tragedy.

One "urgent" secret message to Tokyo, dated Dec. 6, read.

"In addition to carrying on front negotiations with the President and Hull, we have worked directly and indirectly through cabinet members having close relations with the President and through individuals equally influential (because of its delicate bearing upon the State Department, please keep this point strictly secret). Up until this moment we have the following to report:

"1—On the 4th those engaged in plan (A) dined with the President and advised him against a Japanese-American war and urged him to do the 'introducing' at once between Japan and China. However, the President did not make known what he had in mind. According to these men, the attiture of the President is his usual attitude. Recently, when the President discussed matters with Lewis and settled the strike question, I understand that he did so on the advice of these individuals.

"(3) Those carrying on Plan (B) included all of our proposal of Nov. 20 into that of Sept. 25

Truman Solemn As He Reads Text

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The White House news conference which produced the three-power declaration on atomic energy was the most solemn one President Truman has conducted.

The President sat quietly between unsmiling Clement Attlee of Britain and W. L. MacKenzie King of Canada.

Mr. Truman gravely plunged into a rapid reading of the 1000-word text in a slightly husky voice. He held the manuscript in his right hand and gesticulated slightly with his left.

Attlee on the President's right, sat with his hands folded, listening. King occasionally sent hsi forefinger coursing up and down his face.

ROME, Nov. 15 (AP) — Police announced 300 persons were arrested today and hundreds of thousands of domestic cigarets were seized in a series of raids on Rome's tobacco black market.

Text of Atomic Declaration

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The text of the declaration on atomic energy issued today by President Truman and Prime Ministers Atlee of Great Britain and Mackenzie King of Canada:

The President of the United States, the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, and the Prime Minister of Canada, have issued the following statement:

1—We recognize that the application of recent scientific discoveries to the methods and practice of war has placed at the disposal of mankind means of destruction hitherto unknown, against which there can be no adequate military defense, and in the employment of which no single nation can in fact have a monopoly.

2—We desire to emphasize that the responsibility for devising means to insure that the new discoveries shall be used for the benefit of mankind, instead of as a means of destruction, rests, not on our nations alone, but upon the whole civilized world. Nevertheless, the progress that we have made in the development and use of atomic energy demands that we take an initiative in the matter, and we have accordingly met together to consider the possibility of international action:

(a) To prevent the use of atomic energy for destructive purposes.

(b) To promote the use of recent and future advances in scientific knowledge, particularly in the utilization of atomic energy for peaceful and humanitarian ends.

3—We are aware that the only complete protection for the civilized world from the destructive use of scientific knowledge lies in the prevention of war. No system of safeguards that can be devised will of itself provide an effective guarantee against production of atomic weapons by a nation bent on aggression. Nor can we ignore the possibility of the development of other weapons, or of new methods of warfare, which may constitute as great a threat to civilization as the military use of atomic energy.

4—Representing as we do, the three countries which possess the knowledge essential to the use of atomic energy, we declare at the outset our willingness, as a first contribution, to proceed with the exchange of fundamental scientific information and the interchange of scientists and scientific literature for peaceful ends with any nation that will fully reciprocate.

5—We believe that the fruits of scientific research should be made available to all nations, and that freedom of investigation and free interchange of ideas are essential to the progress of knowledge.

In pursuance of this policy, the basic scientific information essential to the development of atomic energy for peaceful purposes has already been made available to the world.

It is our intention that all further information of this character that may become available from time to time shall be similarly treated. We trust that other nations will adopt the same policy, thereby creating an atmosphere of reciprocal confidence in which political agreement and co-operation will flourish.

6—We have considered the question of the disclosure of detailed information concerning the practical industrial application of atomic energy. The military exploitation of atomic energy depends, in large part, upon the same methods and processes as would be required for industrial uses.

We are not convinced that the spreading of the specialized information regarding the practical application of atomic energy, before it is possible to devise effective, reciprocal, and enforceable safeguards acceptable to all nations, would contribute to a constructive solution of the problem of the atomic bomb.

On the contrary, we think it might have the opposite effect. We are, however, prepared to share, on a reciprocal basis with others of the United Nations, detailed information concerning the practical industrial application of atomic energy just as soon as effective enforceable safeguards against its use for destructive purposes can be devised.

7—In order to attain the most effective means of entirely eliminating the use of atomic energy for destructive purposes and promoting its widest use for industrial and humanitarian purposes, we are of the opinion that at the earliest practicable date a commission should be set up under the United Nations organization to prepare recommendations for submission to the organization.

The commission should be instructed to proceed with the utmost dispatch and should be authorized to submit recommendations from time to time dealing with separate phases of its work.

In particular, the commission should make specific proposals:

(a) For extending between all nations the exchange of basic scientific information for peaceful ends.

(b) For control of atomic energy to the extent necessary to ensure its use for peaceful purposes only,

(c) For the elimination from national armaments of

Vision Fails To Support Boy's Story

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—Nine-year-old Joseph Vitolo, Jr., whose reports that he had seen a vision of the Virgin Mary attracted 30,000 persons to a vacant lot in the Bronx last night, where they waited in vain for a sign from heaven as he prayed, was due to go back to his fifth grade classroom today in Public School No. 8.

The boy has been absent from the school since he first claimed to have seen the vision more than two weeks ago.

Joseph Vitolo, Jr.

The devout and the curious joined the halt and the blind in the huge throng that stood in the rain praying about an improvised altar on the crest of a bluff. Elevated trains roared past near-by and photographers' bulbs flashed frequently.

It was the 16th consecutive night that the boy, Joseph, had come to the same spot in the Bronx to pray. Last night, he said, the Blessed Virgin was to have shown him a miracle, perhaps the appearance of a miraculous spring.

But while the crowd saw no miracle, the boy said afterwards that he had seen the vision again.

"Blessed Mary had lots of stars around her head, and she was dressed all in blue," the youngster said.

He refused to answer any further questions. Finally his sister, Mrs. Theresa Campone, quoted him as saying he had been told by the Virgin:

"I am not coming here any more. I have done my work. I don't want you to answer any questions."

Officials of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York were noncommittal on the boy's claim.

The boy rode through the crowd on the shoulders of a neighbor. Cripples and paralytics, men and women with crutches and bandages, a soldier with his eyes blinded were admitted through the crowd so they could stand nearest the altar.

The boy knelt before his altar, which was transformed by banks of flowers, statues and dozens of candles.

"Look, look," spread a rumor. "He is not getting wet."

But those who were closest could see the rain glistening on his dark hair as he knelt in the mud.

A hymn, "Mother Dearest," suddenly swelled. A woman fainted, police whistles blew, and the boy rose to go home.

A priest who said he was the Rev. Francis Mistretta of the Church of the Most Precious Blood, brought his 35-year-old sister, Anna, whose legs are paralyzed, to be touched by the boy.

A sailor pushed his way forward. His wife had suffered a heart attack while she watched the boy at the altar. Would Joseph come?

The boy was taken quickly to the sick woman, Mrs. William Kuhrsen. A priest administered the last rites, the boy rubbed her forehead and prayed. By the time an ambulance arrived the priest said he believed the woman was better.

"The blessed mother said something good was going to happen tonight," said Joseph. "This is it."

Bare, But Beautiful

Camouflage on Girls' Swim Suits

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15—You'll be bare, brown and beautiful on the beach next summer if Fred Cole of California has his way—but in any event you'll be bare.

New swim styles shown to visiting fashion editors from all sections of the country today reduced coverage to bare minimums, with expanses of sun-tanned skin the most important part of every outfit. The scraps of fabric which make up the high-style swim suits, however, are stretched and draped with flattering and functional effect. As Mr. Cole explained:

"We want to keep 'em bare, but flattering. We want 'em functional, but beautiful. And the average figure is bad."

With the average figure in mind, Cole does swim shorts in elasticized shirred treatments which have the effect of a girdle. He ties bra tops with the artistry of a corsetiere. He adds brief ballet skirts to cover the widest part of the female anatomy. But midriffs are almost uniformly bare, bra tops have one strap or none at all, and all suits have an air of carefree abandon very popular, says he, with U. S. femininity in general.

Royal of California shows pedal pusher shorts in all colors and materials, with no tops except a bandeau, and bare midriffs.

Joseph Zukin shows slack suits and play suits which also stress the theme of maximum exposure, a highlight of his collection being black faille swim shorts and bra with a new and flattering V-line front and slacks to match.

Boy Tells Love For Mother of 2

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15—Ellsworth (Whataman) Wisecarver, the 16-year-old irrisistible Romeo, still loves Mrs. Eleanor Deveny, the pretty, 24-year-old mother of two children, with whom he eloped to Oroville.

The marriage-minded "Sonny" confided this to Probation Officer Jerry Jones today as he was being released from Oroville jail in custody of his father. The youth will face charges here as a parole violater growing out of his marriage—at the age of 14—to Mrs. Elaine Monfredi, 22, also the mother of two children. That marriage was annulled after the couple were arrested in Denver.

Meanwhile, the starry-eyed Mrs. Deveny, interviewed at her parents' home, disclosed that "Sonny" is the only man for her. She said she never would go back to her husband, Cpl. John Deveny, now with the Army in Japan.

"It wouldn't be fair to him," she sighed. She revealed that she had turned over to Sonny $85 that her husband had sent her from the Pacific, because Sonny was broke.

"I'd love to take care of him the rest of my life," the young mother added. "He's a dream man. Ideal companion. Perfect lover."

Their romance started while they were both staying at the home of a mutual friend in Long Beach, Mrs. Deveny said.

"I was sure Sonny loved me because he had lots of chances to go with other girls, but the whole 10 days we knew each other he preferred to sit home nights with me. Why, he never even kissed me until the night we ran away."

"Sonny's" mother, Mrs. Mildred Wisecarver, said she was convinced that her boy was the aggressor in his love adventures.

"I was inclined to blame Mrs. Monfredi in his first elopement, but my sympathy is all with this girl's husband," she declared.

Discussing the possibility of her boy marrying Mrs. Deveny, his mother said:

"That's silly. He's too young; she's too old."

Britain Claims Atomic Auto

LONDON, Nov. 15 (INS)—The British fuel and power ministry was studying blueprints of an automobile its inventor, J. Wilson, claims is powered by a form of atomic energy.

Laborite T. E. Naylor, who with Fuel and Power Ministry Parliamentary Sec. William Foster, drove through London in the automobile, said the atomic set was contained in a metal box three inches in diameter.

Wilson says scientific acceptance of his atomic set would shake the world.

"I am not an expert on atomic matters," Naylor declared. "But I know the inventor who has patented the apparatus. He has driven the car thousands of miles without gasoline.

Coldest Snap Due For Hub Tonight

Tonight will be the coldest of the season in Greater Boston, the weatherman predicted today.

The mercury will drop to about 24 in downtown Boston and suburbs as clearing weather replaces the four-day rainy spell, William H. Tracy, senior meteorologist, said.

Northern New England will get even colder weather, he said, with temperatures as low as 10 degrees in some sections.

Strong northerly winds, which reached 50 miles an hour along the coast in gusts, were expected to diminish tonight and give way to clear and cold weather on Friday.

Fireman Hurt In Malden Blaze

One fireman was injured and three women and a little girl were helped to safety today in a two-alarm fire in a three-story wooden block at Main and Charles sts., tying up traffic in Malden sq.

Fireman Clarence Handy was hospitalized for a crushed foot after he had assisted Fireman Wendell Nourse in helping Mrs. Lillian Nash, 70, a second-floor occupant, to the street. Also aided were Mrs. Emma Richard and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Emily Richard, and the latter's daughter, Judith, 3.

'Ike' Asks Postwar Draft to Insure Peace

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (INS)—Gen. Eisenhower said today Russia has "not the slightest thing to gain" through war with the United States and that Great Britain will never go to war against us. Eisenhower, testifying in favor of universal military training before the House military affairs committee, was asked point-blank if there were any nation in the world the United State must fear.

"I can't think of any one nation that would attack the United States," Eisenhower replied. "I don't think there is one."

"How about war with Great Britain?" Rep. Thomas (R.) of New Jersey asked.

"There will never be a war with Great Britain," the general replied.

"How about Russia?"

Eisenhower

"Russia has not the slightest thing to gain by war with the United States," he replied. "I believe the Russian policy is for friendship with the United States."

Under questioning, Eisenhower indicated he favored sharing the atomic bomb secrets with the other United Nations.

"If what I read in the papers is true, that some scientists believe other nations are going to find the secret anyway, there is some point in making a virtue of necessity," he asserted.

Eisenhower drew a parallel between the atom bomb and the failure of the enemy to use gas during the recent war.

"I never bothered my head for one minute about the Germans using gas for one reason," Eisenhower asserted.

"The enemy knew we could use gas more effectively than he could.

Earlier the general declared flatly that if universal training had been in operation in the United States before the war "there would have been no Pearl Harbor."

At the same time, he expressed his faith in the chances for future peace in the world.

"If I thought there would be no lasting peace I would not be here," Eisenhower asserted in measured but forceful tones. "I would have jumped out of my plane into the Atlantic ocean."

But, he continued, a universal military training program would be the "greatest contribution" to world peace.

Rep. Thomason (D.) of Louisiana, asked Eisenhower what the effect of universal service would have had on World War II.

"There would have been no Pearl Harbor" Eisenhower asserted. "Neither Japan nor Germany would have pursued a policy that would have drawn us into war."

Rep. Brooks (D.) of Louisiana asked Eisenhower if World War II could have been avoided through a training program.

Eisenhower replied, "Had that training system been paralleled by technological training and industrial mobilization, we would never have been shot at, never."

2 Girls Re-Enter Home, Die in Fire

GREAT BARRINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Josephine, 5, and Florence, 3, children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reynolds, re-entered their burning home today after they had been left in the yard while their mother hurried half a mile on foot to telephone the fire department, and were burned to death.

Becoming hysterical when she returned and could not find her daughters, Mrs. Reynolds tried to enter the flaming house, but was restrained by firemen.

Her husband was at work and four older children were in school.

Ex-Soldier Held In Hit-Run Death

After an investigation in which 106 automobiles were checked, Thomas J. Floramo, 24, an ex-soldier, of Chealsea st., Everett, was arraigned in Malden district court today charged with the hit-run death of Mrs. Florella Branan, 64, of Clinton st., Everett, a week ago on Revere Beach blv.

Floramo pleaded not guilty and was held in $2500 bail for hearing Nov. 24.

Police found an automobile insigne peculiar to a 1939 model at the scene of the accident, and a check showed there were 106 machines of that make and yeer in Everett.

They discovered that Floramo's machine lacked insigne and also was blood-spattered. The youth declared he had lent his machine that night to a man he knew only by sight.

Can't Take It, Says Vet; Hangs Self

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 15 (AP)—After 34 months of jungle warfare a 27-year-old Army veteran found civilization "too much" and hanged himself last night.

A note to his roommate said: "I'm sorry, but I can't face it any longer . . . my record is good but my mind is blank. The future is too much to face. I've been in the jungles too long, 34 months, and civilization is too much for me."

He had been out of the Army 10 days. Police were unable to find any relatives immediately.

Kennedy Says:

Youth Must Fight Foe From Within

Special to the Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—In a challenge to American youth faced with the solution of world problems, Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to Engand, gave warning of "political enemies among us who are boring from within to destroy our institutions. We worry greatly about juvenile delinquency," Kennedy said. "But I am concerned about civilian delinquency—the callous indifference of the average citizen to the welfare of his community and the future of public affairs."

Kennedy was chief speaker at the second session of the four-day youth conference here.

Kennedy said American youth tested in war's crucible is not going to be very patient if we fail his younger brother. They have seen all forms of government spring up in the world: Communism in Russia, Nazism in Germany, Fascism in Italy, all forms of state control, and now Socialism in England.

They know that all of these popular upheavals were brought about not because people were uncertain and disturbed about the future. They were glad to follow any leader who promised a rainbow of pleasing prospects.

"These are the things the youth of high school age and of junior college age know of the European way of life," Kennedy said. "These are the things his elder brother is determined we shall not tolerate in this country."

Kennedy warned that "the political enemies among us are neither callous nor indifferent.

"They brazenly invade Washington and denounce the President as imperialistic, and denounce the State Department as stupid and narrow," he said. "Because President Truman and Secretary Byrnes dare to look out for American rights in negotiating with Europeans.

"They are inviting the Socialist-Communist Harold Laski to come here and tell us—as he told England recently—that our capitalistic system is dead, unmindful of the fact, as I stated in Boston to a labor convention recently, that it had saved the British empire twice in the last 30 years.

"It is distressing how often our schools and colleges have been the hot-beds of alien political ideas.

"Do not listen to these sirens of state socialism," he said. "Teach our youth the fact that in all human history nowhere has any people approached even remotely the well-being and happiness attained under our American formula."

Schools Closed By Diphtheria

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 15 (AP)—Dr. James Laughlin of Maine's state Health Bureau said today there was "no mystery" about an epidemic in Waterville which has taken four lives, because "it definitely is diphtheria."

"There is nothing to get too excited about," Dr. Laughlin added.

"Schools have been closed, because of an outbreak of diphtheria, until Nov. 26, and children have been prohibited from attending motion picture theaters, churches, or hanging around on crowded streets."

Nisei Hero Gets His $739, Finder Gets Watch

A Hawaiian-born Japanese, on the way home after 36 months' service with the Army in Europe, today recovered $739 he lost in North Station and found a new friend.

PFC Iwai E. Tsuriuchi, 31, of Kauai, T. H., got his money back when John P. Hotz of Evans st., Watertown, brought it into police headquarters and said he found it in the waiting room.

Refusing to accept a reward, Hotz talked with Tsuriuchi for several minutes and then discovered both were watch repairers.

That gave the Nisei war hero an idea and he whipped out a beautiful Swiss watch which he found in Germany. He gave it to Hotz "not as a reward but as a token of friendship."

Warn Jewish Rioters of Death

JERUSALEM, Nov. 15 (AP)—J. V. W. Shaw, British acting high commissioner for Palestine, issued a "punishment by death" warning today to rioters in the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv, where street demonstrations broke out for the second day.

Official and unofficial reports indicated four persons had been killed and more than 100 injured in 24 hours.

Police fired on rioters at Tel Aviv this morning when youths attacked military guards along the Jaffa-Tel Aviv Lydda rail line with stones.

One Tel Aviv crowd fired the postoffice, reports said, while another tried to storm the British bank but was repulsed.

Order was not restored until 2 p. m. at the end of a two-hour deadline ordered by authorities for complete observance of the curfew, after British troops in armored cars and with airplanes overhead had driven the rioters into hiding.

Hundreds of Palestine police and the troops then patrolled the empty streets with guns at their hips.

Disobedience of the curfew appeared to be a part of the policy of resistance ordered by the secret Jewish movement against continuance of the British policy of restricted Jewish immigration into Palestine. Most Jewish citizens, however, did not appear to approve direct attacks against British soldiers.

Shaw's warning was read in Hebrew at 1:30 p. m., over the Palestine radio. It said:

"Unruliness, incitements to violence or disorder and all attempts to disrupt peace and interfere with the normal lives of the people will be punished with the utmost vigor of the law.

"Unlawful carrying or use of firearms, bombs, grenades or other warlike stores is punishable with death."

Huge Textile Black Market Bared Here

The discovery of a huge black market in cotton textiles, involving Massachusetts, New York and New Jersey firms which allegedly gleaned $1,000,000 in over-the-ceiling prices on millions of yards of cotton, was announced here today by federal officials.

U. S. Atty. Edmund J. Brandon declared he had ordered a "sweeping" probe of the cotton textile industry in this area. He said he had at hand "startling evidence" of the ring's operational scope, collected in a joint investigation by OPA and WPB.

That portion of the evidence indicating income tax frauds on the part of big money makers has been transmitted to the Treasury, Brandon stated.

His disclosures were made soon after the federal grand jury returned to Judge Healey indictments charging violations of the Emergency Price Control Act against Arthur T. Callahan, doing business as the Boston Combining Co., Norfolk ave., Roxbury, and Charles Shulman of Swampscott, president and treasurer of the Allied Cement & Chemical Co., Brookline st., Lynn.

The grand jury indicted Callahan on 78 cents, Shulman on 29.

Asst. U. S. Attys. Gottlieb and Jackson have been assigned to the prosecution.

It was learned that evidence concerning misuse of government priorities by black market operators here, New York and New Jersey, will be presented to the jurors. This phase of the probe was undertaken by WPB.

Gottlieb said the companies referred to in the two indictments returned were combiners of textile fabrics for the shoe manufacturing trade.

He added that the effect of black market activities by "prominent concerns' has been to deprive the consumer of his right to equitable allocation of essential textiles used in the manufacture of wearing apparel and other articles.

Winchester Wife's No. 2 Hunts for Baby

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—Mrs. June Virginia Foster Schreiner Benson, 25, Winchester, Mass., who acquired the last three names in the course of three marriages in three years, is held in $5000 bail here under charges of bigamy and perjury, while her second husband, ex-Sgt. Charles Schreiner of Queens, is scouring the country to find their year-old son, Charles, Jr.

Last April, with her husband's consent, she was alleged to have taken $1000 of his savings and started for Florida with the baby. Pvt. Robert Benson of Baraboo, Wis., was on the same train.

Shortly, the sergeant received a letter in which she said she had fallen in love with Benson and married him. She told Schreiner their own 1943 marriage had been illegal because a divorce obtained by her first husband, Navy Lt. Thomas F. Foster, had not been final.

Schreiner hadn't even known she had been married before. Extradited from Wisconsin, she would disclose only the baby was with "friends." She pleaded not guilty to the bigamy and perjury charges.

Whereupon Schreiner started for Wisconsin, hoping to find the baby there. He had met the Winchester woman at her home when he spent part of a leave there with her brother, a training camp buddy.

State to Poll On UNO Site

Gov. Tobin requested Senate President Arthur B. Coolidge and Speaker Frederick B. Willis today to take a telegraphic poll of the Legislature on approval of seizure of a square mile of land in Greater Boston as a site for buildings of the United Nations Organization.

The Governor said his committee, which will fly to England next week to present Boston's case, would have to offer assurance that such a site would be set aside and administered as an international zone.

Explaining that legislative approval was required, the Governor pointed out similar legislation already had been passed in Pennsylvania in an effort to induce the UNO to choose Philadelphia for its permanent headquarters.

Detectives sought to round up his companions at the game for questioning.

Congress Cites Fiskdale Hero

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—A Marine platoon sergeant was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor posthumously today by Navy Secretary Forrestal.

Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Julian of Fiskdale, Mass., accepted the award for their son, Sgt. Joseph R. Julian, who was killed on Iwo Jima March 9.

N. E. Council Endorses Hub U. N. Capital

Resolutions favoring the move to have Boston chosen as permanent headquarters of the United Nations organization were approved today by both the New England Council and the six New England governors, meeting at Hotel Statler in the council's 21st annual conference.

Frederick S. Blackall, Jr., head of the Taft-Pierce Manufacturing Co., who was re-elected as president of the council during the day, opened the conference with praise of the contributions of the six governors to the area's welfare.

Expressing confidence they would "see to it the six states were not subjected to subsidized competition from the South and West," he said:

"The once novel idea of the New England governors working together for the good of our region has become so well established that groups of governors in other parts of the country are now adopting the plan.

"One of the grave fallacies of our present labor policy is the pampering by government of efforts to restrict production. The accent on shorter hours, less production and more wages will engulf us all if it is not stopped. Unless productivity is increased correspondingly, savings accounts, insurance policies, investments and cash itself lose value."

As the conference was opened a message from President Truman, praising New England's contribution to the war effort, was read.

New England's "hard-headed business sense and feeling of responsibility" in the nation's social program were described by L. C. Goad, vice president of General Motors, as the fundamental factor in the concern's decision to build a plant in Framingham.

Representing the First Naval District, Capt. Louis G. McGlone, told the conference New England was the "strongest platform in the United States from which our war production effort has sprung."

Gov. Hildreth of Maine warned against dependence on "security" and advised the conference to beware of too much government interference in industry's reconversion.

Gov. Proctor of Vermont called on New England states to accept their flood control responsibilities lest the projects return to the jurisdiction of the federal government.

Gov. Dale of New Hampshire urged building of adequate airfields to encourage civil aviation.

Gov. Baldwin of Connecticut told the conference of the success attained in meeting labor-management problems in his state through the Labor-Management Advisory Council.

John C. Collett, stabilization administrator in the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, assured the conference that government control of prices would be removed as soon as production warranted.

MRS. MARION KENNE

"Just a Fighting Red-Head"

INP by Bruce McLean

Fighting Redhead Kayoes Ogler in Street Car

William H. Black, 28 and married, of Central pl., Charlestown, not only ogled Mrs. Katherine Nelson of Walford way, Charlestown, on a street car, but when he ignored her warning to cease ogling, and she slapped his face, he up and hit her on the nose, breaking a $35 pair of glasses, police testified in municipal court today.

Mrs. Nelson

Black, who pleaded guilty to assault and battery, told Judge Elijah Adlow he must have plied himself with too much liquor. He was held in $500 bail and the case was continued to Saturday.

Visibly pleased at the way things had gone was Mrs. Marion Kenne, titian-haired companion of Mrs. Nelson.

They were riding in a Bunker Hill car. When the passengers were thrown into a dither by Black's punch at Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Kenne went efficiently to work on Black. By dint of some quickly improvised bit of judo or jujitsu, she held him until the car reached Scollay sq., the motorman wasting no time en route. There she turned Black over to police.

"I'm just a fighting red-head," she said. There was none to say her nay.

Surrender Data On Display Here

Original documents of German and Japanese surrender went on display today in a special seven-car Victory Loan train at South Station.

Weapons used by the Army ground forces also are shown.

The train will be open for inspection on Track 9 until 9 p. m., its itinerary having been arranged for the purpose of helping the Treasury Dept. emphasize the cost of war in connection with the sale of Victory Bonds.

Seven officers and 24 enlisted men, all combat veterans, will demonstrate the weapons and equipment and tell of their experiences. In charge will be Col. Donald C. Clayman, holder of seven awards and decorations. There will be no admission charge.

Atom Bomb Test Seen On German Cruiser

LONDON, Nov. 15 (INS)—The London Daily Telegraph said today the 10,000-ton German cruiser Prinz Eugen may be given to the United States Navy to be sunk in an atomic bomb experiment in conjunction with ships of the Japanese fleet.

The newspaper's naval correspondent also said he understood British plans were completed for the scuttling of 100 U-boats now at Scottish and Northern Ireland ports.

Ike's Official Family Lands In Hub, Singing His Praises

General of the Armies Dwight "Ike" Eisenhower's European family—including his chef, nurses and "front" man—arrived home today loudly singing the praises of their chief.

The little group, who fed and ministered to him for more than two and a half years overseas, arrived aboard the S. S. Brandon Victory, which debarked 1970 troops at Commonwealth Pier.

Lowest in rank but No. 1 man of the entourage was T-Sgt. "Mike" Gruliani of Potsdam, N. Y., who learned his cooking at his father's famous Roman Gardens up in Potsdam.

"He always was a grand guy and never once complained during all the time I did his cooking," the sergeant declared.

Just as enthusiastic over their boss were Capt. Margaret Dey and Lt. Edith Harquail, both of New York city, who cared for "Ike's" health all the way across Europe.

Included among the New Englanders arriving were Sgt. Frank Murdza of Springfield, PFC Louis Coleman of Waltham, PFC Wilfred Mattee of Springfield and PFC Samuel Freeman of Roxbury.

Other Boston arrivals here today were the S. S. Irvin MacDowell, which brought 560 returnees from Antwerp, and the S. S. Sargent, which brought home 661 soldiers from the same port.

On the John Sargeant was Maj. William T. McGann of Sheridan cir., Winchester, who enlisted as a private and during 27 months overseas rose to the rank of major in the Ninth Air Force without ever going to officer candidate school.

Ford Demands CIO Give Firm 'Security'

DETROIT, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. today informed the CIO United Automobile Workers' Union it does not believe the present is the time to settle general wage increases and asked the union for guarantees of company security.

In a letter to the union, with which it shortly will open negotiations on a demand for 30 per cent wage rate increase, the company asserted the union has had membership and financial security in its contract with the company, but that "the company has had no compensating security."

"This has become so serious," the letter said, "that unless some provision can be arrived at in our negotiations to require the union to recognize a full responsibility of its own, the very future of the Ford Motor Co. is at stake."

Accompanying the letter was a statement of 31 proposals which the company suggested be accepted as modifications of the present contract.

With reference to a company security clause, the statement said:

"The company proposes that the union present a plan, to be incorporated in the agreement, which will assure company security, through exercise of union responsibility, which the union shop and checkoff plan have not provided; further, that such plan provide effective guarantees against work stoppages and for increased productivity on the part of its members."

Another proposal suggested "a provision whereby the union undertakes to reimburse the company for any damages it may suffer by reason of violations of the provision prohibiting strikes and other interferences with production."

The letter was directed to Richard T. Leonard, UAW-CIO director for the Ford Co., and was signed by Mel B. Lindquist, company director of labor relations.

GUINNESS
IS GOOD FOR YOU

First brewed in Dublin in 1759! This imported STOUT is internationally famous as a refreshing appetizing beverage. It has long been the world's most popular brew.

With a clean, dry, vigorous flavour, Guinness is hearty, robust . . . brewed with unusually large amounts of barley-malt.

The natural benefits of its mineral content are retained . . . also the goodness of its special, active yeasts, so Guinness continues its long maturing in bottle!

Nothing else like it. Invigorating, nourishing. Good if you're underweight . . . but Guinness is not in itself fattening, compared with other foods. Relax with Guinness at bedtime if you have a little difficulty going to sleep easily.

Enjoy Guinness before or with meals—at bedtime—when you're tired . . . or thirsty. Drink it straight . . . or as famous "Half & Half" (beer or ale with Guinness added). Pour gently, never ice cold. Life is brighter after Guinness.

Due to export controls and Service needs, few dealers now have stocks. But Guinness will be back again before long. EDWARD & JOHN BURKE, LTD., Long Island City 1, New York, Sole U. S. Distributors. GU-356

VFW Chief Backs Memorial For World War II Unknown

The proposal for a memorial in Washington in memory of the unknown Americans who gave their lives in World War II today won the unqualified support of James A. Riley, state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Calling for erection of a shrine in the nation's capital similar to that dedicated to the Unknown Soldier of World War I, this plan was proposed originally by the Boston Evening American and other Hearst newspapers.

"The suggestion for a Tomb of the Unknown Americans, to honor our 300,000 dead in World War II, is an excellent one," said Riley. "A memorial to the Unknown Americans will honor not merely the soldier but all of those who fought in the various branches of our armed services."

In the meantime the matter has been called to the attention of Congress, Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan having yesterday read into the Congressional Record the editorial on the subject printed in the Hearst papers Armistice Day.

The Hearst newspapers' editorial read into the Record by Sen. Ferguson suggested that two bodies of unidentified dead be enclosed in the tomb—one from the European battlefields and one from the Pacific.

and after incorporating those sections in the United States' proposal of Nov. 26 which are either innocuous or advantageous to us —(message incomplete)."

Throughout the messages ran the Japanese contention that they weren't starting a war—that the United States and Britain were pushing them into it.

A Dec. 7 message from Budapest to Tokyo said:

"On the 6th, the American minister presented to the government of this country a British government communique to the effect that a state of war would break out on the 7th."

Sen. Ferguson later told a reporter this message referred to the breaking out of hostilities between Great Britain and Hungary and not any clash between the United States and Japan.

There was no official explanation of the message in the document.

The Japanese consul at Honolulu was disclosed in another committee exhibit to have reported to Tokyo on Dec. 6, 1941, that these vessels were in Pearl Harbor on that date:

"Nine battleships, three light cruisers, three submarine tenders, 17 destroyers, and, in addition there were four light cruisers, two destroyers lying at docks (the heavy cruisers and airplane carriers have all left.)"

The message, intercepted by the Navy, added:

"It appears that no air reconnaissance is being conducted by the fleet air arm."

Notations in the exhibit showed this message was not translated until Dec. 8.

R. Adm. T. B. Inglis and Col. Bernard Thielen were sworn as the first witnesses. Neither was at Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, but they were called to give the committee a "narrative statement" of the disposition of Army and Navy forces in the Hawaiian area on that date.

With an aide pointing to a Pacific map studded with blue tacks, each representing a ship, Inglis told where the Pacific fleet units were.

In Pearl Harbor were eight battleships and 87 lesser vessels. All the battleships were disabled by the Japanese raid.

Under Mitchell's questions, Inglis testified that on Nov. 25, 1941, Adm. Stark, then chief of naval operations, ordered shipping to the Philippines to proceed via a southern route, rather than the great circle route to the north, "thus avoiding as much as possible the sea areas controlled by the Japanese mandated islands."

Thielen, an instructor at West Point at the time of Pearl Harbor, gave a report on Army dispositions. He said Maj. Gen. Short, the Hawaiian commander, had 43,000 men under his command when the Japanese struck.

Adm. Inglis testified there was no written record available that any air searches were made out of Pearl Harbor on Dec. 6.

Col. Thielen testified no shore line patrols were being flown by the Army on the morning of the attack. He retold the story of how Pvt. Joseph L. Lockard had picked up the Japanese attack on a mobile radar machine that morning.

The exhibit of intercepted Japanese coded messages showed that on Dec. 2, 1941, Tokyo advised its embassy here to burn all of its telegraphic code books, secret documents and messages with the exception of one copy of a specific code.

"The above is preparatory to an emergency situation and is for your information alone," the message said.

The exhibit bore a notation that this message had been translated Dec. 3 and the translation corrected the following day.

In a message to the Japanese "peace" ambassadors in Washington, sent Nov. 22 and translated here the same day, Tokyo said negotiations must be completed with the United States by Nov. 29.

"After that," the message said, "things are automatically going to happen."

Tokyo advised the Washington embassy on Dec. 1 that it had ordered the offices in London, Hongkong, Singapore and Manila to destroy their code machines. The Navy translated this message here the same day.

Among the intercepted messages introduced was one of Dec. 6 in which the Japanese consulate in Honolulu reported to Tokyo that the American Army had begun training barrage balloon troops at Camp Davis, N. C.

The Japanese informant told his superiors there were no signs of barrage balloon equipment at Pearl Harbor, Hickam Field and other installations.

"I imagine that in all probability there is considerable opportunity left to take advantage for a surprise attack against these places," the message said.

"In my opinion the battleships do not have torpedo nets."

This message also was not translated until Dec. 8.

On Dec. 3, the Japanese reported to Tokyo that the battleship Wyoming and two seaplane tenders had left the harbor.

The exhibit showed the Navy had intercepted, but did not complete translating till Dec. 12, a long message setting up a set of signals by house lights, insignia on sail boats and want ads in local papers to cover detailed movements of the American fleet.

A German citizen later was accused of sending such signals to the Japanese.

atomic weapons and of all other major weapons adaptable to mass destruction,

(d) For effective safeguards by way of inspection and other means to protect complying states against the hazards of violations and evasions.

8—The work of the commission should proceed by separate stages, the successful completion of each one of which will develop the necessary confidence of the world before the next stage is undertaken. Specifically it is considered that the commission might well devote its attention first to the wide exchange of scientists and scientific information, and as a second stage to the devlopment of full knowledge concerning natural resources of raw materials.

9—Faced with the terrible realities of the application of science to destruction, every nation will realize more urgently than before the overwhelming need to maintain the rule of law among nations and to banish the scourge of war from the earth.

This can only be brought about by giving wholehearted support to the United Nations organization, and by consolidating and extending its authority, thus creating conditions of mutual trust in which all peoples will be free to devote themselves to the arts of peace. It is our firm resolve to work without reservation to achieve these ends.

Senate Group O.K.'s Federal Salary Boost

WASHINGTON, Nov 15 (INS)—The Senate Civil Service Committee today recommended passage of the Downey bill boosting federal workers' salaries a flat 20 per cent.

At the same time, Sen. Downey (D.) of California, announced he would introduce a separate bill embodying President Truman's proposals for pay boosts for members of Congress, the cabinet, the Supreme Court and other judges.

Truck Plows Into Shop at Hingham

Swerving to avoid collision with an automobile, William H. Tufts of Webster st., Malden, today crashed a big oil trailer truck into a carpenter shop at West's Corner on Route 128, Hingham, and escaped without injury.

Tufts said the front brake locked and the cab of the machine plunged into the shop, owned by Grace Abbadessa. No one was in the shop at the time, and the driver backed the truck out.

fective enforceable safeguards against its use for destructive purposes can be devised.

"In order to attain the most effective means of entirely eliminating the use of atomic energy for destructive purposes and promoting its widest use for industrial and humanitarian purposes, we are of the opinion that at the earliest practicable date a commission should be set up under the United Nations organization to prepare recommendations for submission to the organization."

The communique said the military exploitation of atomic energy is made possible through use of the same processes as would be required for industrial uses.

It is for that reason, the communique said, that it is not felt wise at this time to disclose the specialized information on the production of the atomic bomb until enforcible safeguards for world peace are set up.

"We have considered the question of the disclosure of detailed information concerning the practical industrial application of atomic energy," the communique stated. "The military exploitation of atomic energy depends, in large part, upon the same methods and processes as would be required for industrial uses."

MEN, WOMEN OVER 40
RUN DOWN, LISTLESS?
GET NEW PEP, VIM
END THAT TIRED FEELING
Why be tired, nervous, old at 40 just because your body is not getting a sufficient daily amount of Iron, Iodine and Thiamine May people have that "run down" feeling and never realize that an extra supply of these much needed elements may be just what they need. Check up on yourself now! Do you have all the energy and endurance you want or are you one of those who may need a little extra help by adding Iron, Iodine and Thiamine to your diet?

OLD AT 40-50-60?
Old age arrives when the body no longer builds new cells to replace old cells as fast as they wear out. Iron and Iodine, important cell building factors, help fight the onset of OLD AGE.

Nervous, Irritable?
Are ragged, jumpy nerves making you irritable, cross and out of sorts with yourself? High tension and nervousness may be due to a deficiency of Thiamine and Iodine. Don't overlook these factors when your "nerves" are on edge.

PALE, LISTLESS?
Radiant, robust, energetic health that makes life really worth while is priceless. If you are pale, listless, and all in, an added supply of Iron, Iodine and Thiamine may be just what you need.

WEAK, TIRED?
A mineral starved body, a body starved for Iron and Iodine weakens quickly and tires easily. You must get enough Iron and Iodine for strength with Vim, Pep and Vitality.

IRON-IODINE THIAMINE
Hiran is a fine combination of Iron and Iodine plus Thiamine that helps many people to enjoy better health as it helps overcome or guards against a deficiency of these important essentials. No matter what your work may be, you must get enough Iron or you cannot have normal strength, energy and endurance.
HIRAN TABLETS—Large Economy Size—$3.50
TEST WITHOUT RISK: Use all the tablets, according to directions, in a bottle of Hiran. If you do not feel better generally, with more energy and vitality, this test is without cost . . . your money will be refunded.

Dorchester JVA Elects Officers

Betty Jardine has been named commander of the "Defense and Aviation" Corps of the Junior Victory Army in the annual election at Oliver Wendell Holmes school, Dorchester.

Other officers chosen are Gloria Pitchel, captain, and Frank Vonarriga, sergeant.

This corps is joining with other JVA groups in the campaign to collect playing cards for the Citizens Committee for the Army and Navy, affiliate of the USO in Boston. Miss Esther E. Larson, sponsor, announces that each member plans to bring in three packs of cards.

They are needed on transports taking servicemen to and from Europe.

Latest report by the corps shows the members contributed $268 for war stamps and purchased 24 Victory bonds. They also collected 392 books, 120 pounds of fats, 356 pounds of scrap paper and several decks of playing cards.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army, P. O. Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin well wrapped in your letter.

Extra Time Given For History Tests

Preliminary examinations in the annual Hearst Newspapers American History Awards have been extended one week, to Dec. 10, giving candidates from the Boston public and parochial high schools an additional week to prepare themselves.

Postponement of the preliminary examination date will move the final examinations for the top 41 contestants up to Dec. 17.

These examinations will be at Faneuil Hall, and winners of the first three places in this contest will compete in the national contest for high school pupils of 13 major cities.

President Alva Southward of the History Council of the Boston Public schools, an instructor at Technical High School, who will serve as chairman of the awards committee, is already drawing up the list of questions to be submitted to the contestants, and when this list is complete he will confer within a few days with Boston's public and parochial school authorities.

Southward was named chairman of the contest by School Supt. Arthur L. Gould and the Rev. William J. Daly, supervisor of parochial schools in the Boston archdiocese. The chairman emphasized the contest will be based on American history from 1781 to 1925 – a period of tremendous significance in the formation of the American democracy.

The Hearst awards include local prizes of $1000 in Victory bonds and national awards totaling $25,000. Examination papers will be accompanied by an essay of not more than 250 words on a subject vital to the history of the United States, to be announced later.

Papers will be graded by a committee of judges and will be identifiable only through code numbers, and will bear neither names, addresses nor the schools of the respective contestants. All public and parochial high school pupils in Boston are eligible for these awards, with the exception of members of the families of employes of the Boston Record-American and Sunda y Advertiser

First of Musicales

PATRICE MUNSEL, 20-year-old "baby of the Met," was guest artist at the opening concert of the Boston Morning Musicales' 18th season yesterday. Fashionable subscribers, eager to see and hear this glamorous young singer, packed the Statler ballroom and her beauty and talent were the chief conversational topics during intermission and the many after-concert luncheons.

The first concert is always a pleasant reunion of old friends and yesterday's was gayer than ever because of the return of so many young people from wartime duties. Sally Reed, Dedham post deb, who drove a clubmobile on the European battle fronts and received a citation for outstanding service, came to the concert with her brother, Lt. Sam Reed, USNR. Mrs. Charles Hovey, wearing an attractive leaf green suit with beaver tuxedo front and cute little coronet of green feathers, was warmly greeted on her return from the West where she has been with her Navy husband.

Mary Brown

Mary Helen Brown, Brookline post deb who is studying voice in New York, came home to hear Patrice, a close friend, and entertain her at lunch afterward.

Even in an audience notable for lavish furs, eye-compelling hats and the fragrance of expensive perfumes, Mrs. Jack Adie was noticeably vogueish. Her slim brown dress was topped by a luxurious wide mink stole that reached to the hem of her dress, and her brown cloche was trimmed with gold beads. She chatted during the coffee hour with Mrs. Andrew N. Winslow and Miss Louise Condit.

A PERKY black velvet coronet topped Mrs. John Moseley Abbot's good looking black outfit and Mrs. Walter Merriam Pratt wore a stunning gold wool suit lined with black broadtail. Mothers and daughters included Mrs. Charles Matz and Mrs. Harry B. Anderson (Patty Matz) whose plum tweed reefer had a saucy peplum back and matching beanie; Mrs. James J. Phelan and Mrs. Edward M. Gallagher in a modish black and royal blue wool costume suit trimmed with Persian lamb; Mrs. Paul Clark and Mrs. Randolph Post Eddy, and Mrs. Hugh Bancroft with her daughter, Mrs. William C. Cox.

Getting together for their annual Dutch treat luncheon at the Ritz after the concert were Mrs. H. Parker Whittington, Mrs. Oscar Simmons, Mrs. William Boss, Mrs. Ricketts Sumner and Mrs. Daniel Winsor. And another luncheon gathering included Mrs. Paul Frost Alles, Mrs. H. F. Woodfin, who came from Rutland, Vt., for the concert, Mrs. Harold Blanchard and Mrs. Richard M. Gorham.

"WHAT ABOUT FRANCE" will be the subject of Miss Eunice Avery's lecture tomorrow morning at the Copley Plaza for the benefit of the Children's Hospital. Mrs. Alan S. Towle will be hostess, Miss Gretchen Clifford and Mrs. Rene Marcou, ushers, and Miss Barbara Homer and Mrs. Robert A. Gilman ticket takers.

THE ENGAGEMENT of Gladys Helene Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Bennett of Wellesley, to Lt. (j.g.) Cyril Edward Dougherty of Canton, Ohio, was announced Armistice Day at a tea given by Mrs. Warren A. Wood (Elizabeth Weston) and Mrs. Harvard F. Weston of Auburndale.

The bride-to-be received best wishes from many friends and wore a black crepe dress trimmed with narrow Hamburg lace. Her mother chose a black wool suit accented with turquoise velvet and Mrs. Wood a lacquer red and black outfit.

ATTLEE'S PLAN

THE PROPOSAL offered by Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain that the atomic bomb secret "and other basic scientific knowledge" be internationally POOLED puts the whole purpose of Mr. Attlee's mission to the United States under suspicion.

This could not have been more clearly and completely a SOVIET RUSSIAN proposal if an official and acknowledged spokesman of the Russian government had made it.

The essence of the Attlee proposal is that Soviet Russia be called upon for a specific declaration of its FUTURE territorial and diplomatic aspirations.

If these declared aspirations appear to be unobjectionable to the United Nations—specifically to the United States and Great Britain—then Mr. Attlee would have not only the atom bomb secret but all other scientific knowledge placed under the control of the Security Council of the United Nations and thus delivered into the possession of Russia.

Let it be well marked that Mr. Attlee makes no mention whatever of the territorial and diplomatic aspirations Russia has already realized—chiefly at the expense of her helpless neighbors.

Russia has already seized and ruthlessly absorbed vast territories belonging to her neighboring countries. Russia has repeatedly violated her diplomatic pledges to respect the sovereignty of her neighbors.

MR. ATTLEE'S proposal would seem to have the effect—and probably the actual purpose—of giving the BLESSING of the United Nations, including the blessing of the United States and Great Britain, to all the aggressions and usurpations and diplomatic immoralities of which Russia has been guilty in the past.

What moral and legal justification could there ever be for approval of ACTUAL INTERNATIONAL CRIMES by the other nations of the world which have pledged themselves to higher principles?

Russia has often SAID in the past that she had no territorial aspirations affecting her neighbors, and has often given diplomatic pledges to respect their sovereignty.

WHAT REASON COULD THERE BE TO SUPPOSE HER WORD NOW OR IN THE FUTURE WOULD BE ANY BETTER THAN IT HAS BEEN?

Of course, the Russian government would glibly PROMISE anything to gain possession of the atom bomb, in order to facilitate her territorial and ideological aspirations.

It would callously BREAK those promises at any time it suited the Russian purpose, at any time in the future as it has done at all times in the past.

That is the Soviet Russian way of doing business, the RED FASCIST way.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY
WASHINGTON

Mr. William Randolph Hearst,
San Simeon, California.
Dear Mr. Hearst:

Please accept the Navy's appreciation for the campaign conducted by the New York Journal-American and other Hearst papers to preserve the U. S. S. Enterprise.

The "Big E," the only big carrier to be awarded a Presidential Unit Citation, was the stout-heart of our defense in the Pacific when the odds were considerably against us. Although she has outlived her usefulness to the modern fleet, she remains as a symbol of American power and as such will take her place in the Navy's Hall of Fame.

Sincerely,

James Forrestal

EVER HEAR of a man whose job was measuring discarded cigaret butts? Neither did I until today. The manufacturers, wishing to learn how much of a cigaret the average smoker wasted, put a group of men to work measuring discarded butts. Fifty-thousand butts were measured and it was thus learned the average smoker consumes one inch of a possible two inches of a two and three-quarter-inch cigaret. Keep that in mind. If the butt you throw away is longer than three-quarters of an inch you are extravagant. Incidentally, the women of this country now smoke more cigarets than the men. Women buy 69 per cent of the cigarets manufactured annually in the United States.

SIDELIGHTS: Shakespeare said pity was the straightest way to a woman's heart but Josh Billings observed: "The shortest way to a woman's heart is to praise her hat." Josh had something there. Keep it in mind, young fellow . . . Willard Avours claims a man could have five wives, all in the United States, and yet be immune from arrest. This he explains as follows: "The divorce laws in the United States are so complicated that a man may be legally divorced in one state and married in another. By moving from state to state, obtaining a divorce in each and remarrying, he could get five wives, each of whom would be recognized in her own state but not in the others."

AS IT WAS: Asked if I remember when women's stockings were referred to as "The First National Bank." I answered in the affirmative. I said it was about 20 years ago, in the heyday of the late Marie Dressler, when women carried their coin purses in their stockings. But on thinking it over, I couldn't recall knowing any woman who carried her money that way. My girl friend couldn't either. How about you?

PLEASE NOTE: If a man slaps his wife's face once that is not cruelty. But if he slaps the little lady in the face twice, that is cruelty and she can sue for a divorce. Such is the claim of a lawyer who specializes in divorce cases . . . Mr. and Mrs. Williams of Hollis, L. I., must be added to the list of those who became grandparents twice in the same day. Edward Scillia may hold a record in this respect. He became a grandfather twice within five minutes. Of course, Mr. Scillia is a Brooklynite.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Name an American writer who wrote over 5000 popular songs. A—Never was such a writer. However, Fanny Crosby wrote over 5000 hymns, the most popular of which was "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." As to what American composer wrote the most published popular songs I couldn't say, but believe Ned Harrigan of Harrigan & Hart wrote over 400. Q—The corporal whose name is Regan says Berkeley, Cal., is named after an Irishman. Who ever heard of an Irishman named Berkeley? How about this? A—Corporal Regan is as right as gravy with mashed potatoes. Berkeley, Cal., is named after George Berkeley, Bishop of Cloyne, who was born in Kilkenny County, Ireland. It was the bishop who gave voice to the immortal words: "Westward the course of empire takes its way."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate)

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—Gov. Tom Dewey and Judge Jonah Goldstein, the defeated Republican candidate for mayor of New York in the recent election, made some very serious charges against William O'Dwyer, who was able to ignore them because it was obvious that he couldn't lose unless he dropped dead.

William O'Dwyer

For a candid explanation of a professional politician's conduct in such circumstances, thanks are due Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who, at the last hour stated her views on "political accusations."

"The obvious expectation would be that a candidate would promptly refute any accusations which he could categorically deny or, at least, that he would try to explain his side of the question," Mrs. Roosevelt wrote. "The strong man does not rush to deny accusations. He relies upon what is known about him and upon the future, very often, to prove his integrity. People who make explanations are less apt to be sure in their own hearts that they are invulnerable. The public is entitled to the truth but it is sometimes entitled to proof of what is truth through action."

HERE, I TAKE IT, we have the reason why Mrs. Roosevelt, with a portion of white paper at her command daily and monthy, and further access to publication for any comment she desires to utter in a speech, handout or interview, has never challenged statements concerning the honor and integrity of her late husband. Her son, Elliott, did make the mistake of denouncing the disclosure of the Hartford loan as a pack of lies and brought down on himself and his late father's reputation such a mass of material as to disturb even the Democrats of the House Ways and Means Committee who confined their report to a decision on a technical tax matter, ignoring all questions of the propriety, honesty and legality of the late President's conduct.

It has been charged that the promoters of Mrs. Roosevelt's show on the coffee program on the radio did "sell" her employer the prestige of the White House and promise to "deliver" the co-operation of government departments and that she and President Roosevelt did entertain at the White House an advertising agent who understood that they wanted him to throw some business to their son and had invited him for no other reason.

It is unfortunate that these and other matters could not be verified during Mr. Roosevelt's life because this timing undoubtedly does encourage some citizens to hope that, while he lived, he might have been able to refute them.

In this connection, however, Mrs. Roosevelt's own word would seem to prevail that "people who make explanations are less apt to be sure in their own hearts that they are invulnerable."

"Invulnerable" how? Politically or morally?

THAT MR. ROOSEVELT was politically invulnerable and could have ignored the accusations in the Hartford and Charles Harwood loans and their settlement is a probability. He never bothered to deny the flat charge by Robert Moses that, in an off-season, while he was out of office, he tried to plant Louis Howe, his private political secretary, on the public payroll at $5000.

And the citizen is naive who thinks that while Mr. Roosevelt was President the Treasury would have been as thorough as it was after his death or even that Mr. Doughton, the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, would have pressed his demand for the facts as effectively.

Pleased as I am to have Mrs. Roosevelt's statement of her position I still take the position of a fundamentalist on matters of the morals of public men which seems diametrically opposed to hers.

Speaking of one editorial writer who wrote an essay announcing his paper's repudiation of O'Dwyer, Mrs. Roosevelt said she had great respect for him as a historian, adding, however, "I doubt if he is quite as good a practical politician."

THE LADY'S statement that "the public is sometimes entitled to proof of what is truth through action" I have read forward, backward and both ways from the middle and played over slowly on the guitar.

And I still don't understand it. Maybe it is code. For my part, the proposition is simpler. I say only that the public is entitled to the truth.

If the truth demolishes a myth, every person in a position to present the truth or refute untruth has a public duty and is honor bound to do so.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 15—Patrice Munsel, the 20-year-old Metropolitan star who had New York hanging on her high C's last year, is coming to Hollywood. The movie that brings the native-born Kansas City song-bird to town is "The Life of S. Hurok" which 20th Century-Fox is making, based on the career of the famed impresario. She is the first of many opera and ballet stars being lined up by Georgie Jessel and Director Gregory Ratoff.

Patrice Munsel

Well, I'll certainly say Patrice is something different in the line of opera stars. Did you see those pictures of her wearing a bathing suit (and how!) in a national magazine not long ago? Her streamlined contours earned her much more publicity than the "bare" fact that she is the youngest diva in Metropolitan opera history. Whether she is singing or posing, I guess Patrice strikes just the right note.

UNIVERSAL hasn't a tie-in with British producer Arthur Rank for nothing. The English imports are beginning to arrive at the Hollywood studio with regularity and the latest to be signaled long-distance is Phyllis Calvert. At least, she is the London belle who has the inside track on starring in the late Rachel Field's "Time Out of Mind" for "U". The other English import on the lot is Patricia Roc who will debut in "Canyon Passage." I hear Phyllis is very beautiful and glamorous and is another nail in the old saying that English stars are plainer than the Hollywood variety. Robert Siodmak will direct "Time Out of Mind," a saga of a shipbuilding family in New England in the 1870's.

SHORTSIGHTED critics who are saying that Frank Sinatra is getting so preachy he'll lose his bobby-sockers should get an eyeful of the way his kids flocked to see his racial tolerance short, "The House I Live In," in New York. The featurette is outdrawing the main features in the houses it plays in. Produced originally by Frank Ross and Mervyn Le Roy as a nonprofit venture, there will be plenty of dough, re. mi to distribute. I've just learned that a presidentially appointed committee will administer the profits turned over by RKO and that the organizations to benefit include welfare societies of all races and creeds.

DID YOU EVER hear of Lt. Michael Burke of the Navy, former All-American star of the University of Pennsylvania? Well, maybe you didn't, but you will now. Milton Sperling, who engaged Mike, who is one of the most decorated men in the war (he's the fellow who got the head of the Italian fleet and persuaded him and his force to turn against the Fascists), took one look at him and said: "Look here, you're too handsome to stay behind the camera. Write yourself a part in 'The Cloak and the Dagger'." And, Mike did. Oh, yes, Mike is also losing his wife this week. She's Faith Long, a Conover model, and she is going to Reno to get herself free. A bad time to get free, I'd say.

EDDIE CANTOR, in Washington for the Press Club dinner, was received by President Truman at the White House a few hours before the dinner. "I'm very honored to be invited to the White House, Mr. President," said Eddie, "but with so much of me in the show tonight and seeing me this afternoon, too, I'm afraid you'll get your fill of Cantor." To which the President smiled and said that with everything else that had been happening to him around there lately, he guessed he could stomach Eddie, too! He particularly complimented Cantor on his air show programs raising funds for the war wounded. Last year Eddie hit a million and a half for distribution throughout hospitals. This Christmas he's aiming for $2,000,000.

HEARD A VERY amusing story about Butch Jenkins, one of my favorite actors. When Butch was in Salt Lake City filming "Army Brat" he met Governor Maw, and the Governor fell for Butch, hook, line and sinker. "Come to the Capitol Building," he said, "and I'll take you around." "Thank you," said Butch, "but who shall I ask for?" Well, to make a long story short, the Governor took him on a personally conducted tour of the Capitol, but even then Butch wasn't impressed. He thought he'd rather be an actor than Governor.

Washington Scene

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON, NOV. 15—I am going to recount this exactly as it happened because the whole thing is so eerie and macabre I can hardly believe it myself.

Of a dark and drizzly Sunday I attended a football game with Mr. Harry Wismer, the sports broadcaster; Mr. Tony Weitzel, the Detroit columnist; Mr. Jack Davies, the theatrical magnate, and a couple of other characters, all of whom seem to be practicing to become hobgoblins.

At the game, Steve Bagarus of the Washington Redskins appeared to be doing quite a lot of work and I judged by the plaudits of the crowd that his efforts were considered commendable.

Mr. Bagarus is extremely fleet of foot, especially when carrying a football, which he did frequently. This led Mr. Davies to observe that Mr. Bagarus had not been fully appreciated when he was playing for a school named Notre Dame.

Mr. Davies said he had been discussing this situation recently with Mr. Elmer Layden, who used to be coach at this same Notre Dame, and Mr. Toots Shor, the former Roosevelt braintruster. Mr. Shor observed that Mr. Layden had not played Mr. Bagarus regularly and Mr. Layden retorted this was sheer second-guessing.

"It may be second-guessing," agreed Mr. Shor, "But I have another piece of second-guessing for you. If you had played Bagarus more often you might still be coach at Notre Dame!"

DURING THE CONTEST, Mr. Wismer kept up a running fire of conversation. I thought at first he was just being gabby but it seems he was broadcasting. In self-protection, in case anyone was listening, I wish to testify that a number of corny gags he attributed to me were strictly his own; that I had no hand in them whatsoever.

In fact, about my only contribution came after a telegram congratulating Mr. Wismer on his efforts was read over the air. Pretending great modesty, Mr. Wismer asked whom the wire was signed by and I said: "Wismer."

AFTER THE GAME we attended a reception at the Allies Club for Barnee, the venerable maestro, and his bride, the former Dolores Di Minni. Washington has practically dedicated itself to giving parties for Barnee and his beautiful missus.

Their endless roundless round of social activities prompted Mr. Dutch Bergman, famous football star and coach of yesteryear, to wonder out loud—and over a microphone, yet—whether they had time for the furnishing of their new apartment.

Everybody, including Maxim Lowe, the impresario; Joe Arnold, the bus magnate, and the host, Eddie Carr, was called upon to say a few nice words about the newlyweds. But, by the time they managed to get Mr. Wismer forward, the evening had progressed so far that he forgot what was expected of him.

He beamed benevolently upon the bride and groom—and proceeded to give the out-of-town football scores.

IN HUMILIATION I must admit that I broke my rule of strict abstemiousness in a couple of places. The result was that the following morning, which I recall dimly was a Monday, I was not myself—and I wish I could remember who I was because I wish to avoid him in future.

I was dragged to suffering wakefulness by the ringing of the doorbell. Two solemn-visaged gentlemen were on the porch.

Now this is where it becomes so utterly macabre. Dying oath—do you know what those fellows wanted?

They wanted to sell me a plot in a cemetery!

SHUDDERING, I told them I did not want to think about dying, although I feared such a fate was imminent.

The fellows looked at me dolefully and one said:

"Nobody wants to think about it."

"Well," I said, gently slamming the door with all my might, "I do not want to think about it now!"

Boston After Dark

THE REAL "GOOD THING" of the waning New England racing season was Allpulch, the 4-year-old maiden which won the last race at Rockingham Tuesday . . . More than $3000 was pushed into the mutuels on Allpulch in the final minute or two, knocking the price of the nag down to a lovely 12-1 . . . The bustling little community of Revere had many happy residents as a result of Allpulch's victory . . . A semi-wise citizen with as little as $20 on the horse's nose was a piker, according to authentic word filtrating west to Boston.

ROY ROGERS COULD RUN for City Council and win in the next Boston election . . . The handsome crooning cowboy is endearing himself to one and all by his readiness to fulfill commitments to perform favors . . . Mr. Rogers will not be interested in the current rate of City Council pay, however . . . And even if the raise from $2000 a year to $3500 had been sanctioned by the electorate in the recent polling, he still would not be interested . . . Counting his increment from recordings, pictures and personal appearances in the rodeo, the Rogers lad is netting himself (exclusive of taxes) as much as $35,000 a week.

THE MUSIC BOX GROSS is soaring . . . The handsome room in the sparkling Copley Square Hotel now holds Jack Eaves and his orchestra, and the unit's brand of dance music has won quick favor . . . The Burgundy cocktail lounge, adjacent to the Music Box, in the same Copley Square, is an overnight hit, too . . . John Costello, the manager of the Music Box, may soon look for new fields to conquer . . . Seldom has a comparative newcomer to Boston ingratiated himself in the public's affections with the hold Mr. Costello has won in a short three years . . . Jimmy O'Keefe's association with the Copley Square management is helping a great deal, also . . . Messrs. O'Keefe and Costello went all out for James M. Curley in the mayoral election, and if the Copley Square becomes a rendezvous for testimonial banquets to city appointees, it will prove no great surprise to the voters and politicians.

A BIT LATE perhaps, but timely enough, is the appraisal of School Committee Chairman Michael J. Ward's spectacular showing in the voting which returned Mr. Curley to the mayor's chair in a phenomenal sweep . . . Four years ago, Mr. Ward got a large winning vote in his first effort to win a seat on the school board . . . This year, the Ward vote jumped more than 43 per cent over the first count . . . This is said to be unusual . . . Generally, after a first strong showing in a school committee fight, a candidate has taken the slow road out of office, with a dwindling plurality in successive attempts . . . Either that, or he becomes mayor or sheriff.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: With Jack Larkin's inauguration of a new Red Coach Grill at Hingham, the decision has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dimond to operate the famous Worrick Inn at Nantasket as an all-year-'round restaurant and cafe . . . The untimely fire which put Hugo's (in Cohasset) out of business, has resulted favorably for other high class restaurants along the South Shore . . . The Worrick is constructed a la New York, with a cocktail bar at the entrance . . . Suggested (again) for the convenience of hungry theater-goers who wish to elude the crowded downtown district after seeing a show: The Myles Standish Supper Room, with entrances on Beacon st. and Bay State rd. . . . The hotel's supper menu is perhaps the most variegated in Boston.

JUDGE JAMES E. DOOLEY, president of the Narragansett Racing Association, has every right to be glowing with pride today on receipt of news from the Pacific theater . . . The judge's eldest son, Lt. James Alden Dooley, USNR, currently aboard the USS Biscayne in Japanese waters, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal.

THE CITATION by Adm. R. K. Turner is extravagant in Lt. Dooley's praise . . . It reads (in part): "For heroic services in connection with operations against the enemy as Operations Officer on the staff of the Commander of a naval task group from March until June 1945, during the assault and capture of Okinawa Shima . . . Demonstrating exceptional administrative ability and sound judgment, he capably planned and co-ordinated the movement of the vessels of the group . . . Through his initiative, aggressiveness and devotion to duty, he was of great assistance to the command and contributed materially to the success of this hazardous operation . . . his conduct throughout distinguished him among those performing duties of the same character" . . . Lt. Dooley was graduated from Moses Brown School, Boston University and Boston University Law School . . . He is 31 . . . The lieutenant expects to be home for Christmas, in Rumford, R. I.

Gala Bill for Met Bond Show

A star-spangled million-dollar stage and screen Victory Bond Premiere is scheduled for the de luxe Metropolitan Theater, Dec. 3, at 8:30. Planned as the most spectacular and glorious victory celebration in the history of the Met, the entire screen and stage program will be presented in the interest of the current Victory Loan Drive.

On the giant Metropolitan stage, through the co-operation of the U. S. Treasury Department, will be a galaxy of radio and musical comedy stars selected from the ranks of the armed services. Included in the star-filled company of performers, all of whom were professional entertainers before being called into the services, are Frank Fontaine, comedy star of the Rudy Vallee shows; Joseph Kiernan, singing star of the new "Ziegfeld Follies;" Leo Nedoff and Bobby Coltman, Hollywood's favorite funsters; Sally Richards, Broadway's enchantress of song; Billy Leech, singing star of Guy Lombardo's orchestra; the Snafu Swingsters, a musical organization of boys in khaki, all former members of name bands; and the singing and dancing sweethearts of the armed forces.

The screen attraction for the gala Victory Bond Premiere will be the first pre-release showing in America of "The Stork Club" starring Betty Hutton.

Buy a victory bond now at any downtown M. & P. theater for free reserved seat ticket to the Metropolitan Victory Bond Premiere. Admission to the show will be by bond purchase only.

Record List of Stars at RKO-Radio

The return of Charles W. Koerner, former head of Keith Theaters here, from his seven-week trip to Europe points up the fact that this studio has never before in its history claimed so many top stars in one season's program as have been corralled by RKO Radio's production chief this year.

Naming names that make box-office, we give you Bing Crosby, Ingrid Bergman, Cary Grant, Ginger Rogers, Jimmy Stewart, Rosalind Russell, Claudette Colbert, John Wayne, Dorothy McGuire, George Brent, John Garfield, Henry Fonda, Joan Fontaine, Pat O'Brien, Gregory Peck, Dick Powell, George Raft, Randolph Scott, Maureen O'Hara, Paul Henried, Myrna Loy, Robert Young, Laraine Day and Joan Bennett.

'Gaslight Follies' Laugh Feast for Film Patrons

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Gaslight Follies," Bostonians Maxwell Finn and Joseph Levine's 'way-back-when production at the Tremont and Old South Theaters, is a bountiful cornucopia of corn and chuckles.

This poor-man's-hellzapoppin' so old it is new, is a nostalgic guffaw begetting symposium of silent era films and clips that rates a place in the film libraries for its comprehensive summation of the first 40-odd years in screen history.

PATSY RUTH MILLER

It is a certainty that no other two houses in town cornered more laughs than did the Tremont and Old South at yesterday's first-day shows. Like Gaul, the picture is divided into four parts so that it may be played either in its entirety or as separate shorts.

The first quarter restores to the screen from out of the dear, dead past such imperishable favorites as Mabel Normand, John Gilbert, Valentino, Fatty Arbuckle, Marie Dressler, William S. Hart, Mack Sennett, Doug Fairbanks and many others. Ben Grauer's well-presented commentary is constantly broken up during the unreeling by laughs at the outlandish costumes, grotesque makeup and jerky, graceless movements of the actors who perform like so many amateurishly manipulated puppets.

Newsreel clips dating back to 1899, including the Jefferies-Fitzsimmons fight film and an unintentionally comic fashion parade provide a well-rounded . . . in more ways than one . . . recapitulation of the turn-of-the-century's carefree, calorie-unconscious era. Ethel Owens' fashion commentary is slyly pitched and John B. Kennedy, giving out on more momentous news events, does nice work. The third section is devoted to a tabloid version of "The Drunkard," with the original Los Angeles company now in its 15th year. It is the production's only modern bit, modern, that is, insofar as screen techniques are concerned. It is a 31-minute condensation of a full-length production, with the laughs repeatedly nudging the dialogue out of hearing.

The tearjerker, "East Lynne," is the picture's snapper. Milton Cross and the same Ethel Owen engage in some smartypants patter that, unfortunately, drowns out the customers' wisecracks every now and then. This dubbing-in might very well have been omitted because "East Lynne" is funnier when everybody in the house gets into the act.

Thanksgiving Day Matinee at Shubert

A special Thanksgiving Day (Nov. 22) matinee for "Billion Dollar Baby," the new Comden-Green, Morton Gould musical starring Mitzi Green and Joan McCracken, has been scheduled at the Schubert by producers Paul Feigay and Oliver Smith.

Ballet Ticket Sale at Wilbur

Seats for all performances of Leonide Massine's "Ballet Russe Highlights," opening a week from tonight at the Opera House, are now on sale at the Wilbur Theater.

Rosella Hightower, Anna Istomind, Helen Komarova, Bettina Rosey and Yurek Lazovsky head the Massine ensemble, which will give four performances on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. There is to be a special Saturday night program.

"Billion Dollar Baby," the new Betty Comden-Adolph Green musical featuring Mitzi Green and Joan McCracken, has its premiere tonight at the Shubert Theater, New Haven, where it will play a three-day engagement prior to its Tuesday evening opening at the Hub's Shubert Theater.

'Rhapsody in Blue' At Scollay, Olympia

"Rhapsody in Blue," Warners' George Gershwin story with Robert Aylda in the role of America's great modern composer, is now showing on the Washington Street Olympia and Scollay screens. Joan Leslie, Alexis Smith and Charles Coburn are importantly spotted.

The Modern Theater is currently presenting "State Fair," 20th Century-Fox's Technicolorful idea of a state fair starring Dana Andrews, Jeanne Crain and Dick Haymes. The co-feature, "Scotland Yard Investigator," features C. Aubrey Smith and Erich von Stroheim.

Fashion

Balsam Freshener Grand Tonic for Skin

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

WHEN THERE'S NO SUN, no beach, no ocean . . . when there's no summertime to romp and play in and tonic the complexion . . . there's always the balsam freshener. This is an unusual beauty liquid which is as palatable to the skin as peaches to cream . . . as a mint julep to a parched throat.

As a matter of fact, it looks as frosty as a mint julep and has the same tingling sensation on the complexion. A clear, green liquid, it is different from a skin lotion, and not the same as an astringent . . . although it contains the propensities of both. But, it goes a step beyond these complexion awakeners.

This balsam freshener . . . when used after every cream cleansing . . . has the power to check facial oiliness and refine large pores. Maybe you don't need an all-over facial check . . . since only the center of your face is given to exuding oil. Many girls have dual complexions . . . with the major part of their skin normal or average or dry . . . and the center area as greased as the hub of a wheel.

This balsam freshener when used on these affected areas does a perfectly grand job of controlling the oil glands from pouring out over the skin for an almost perpetual shine. And, those pores which may not be exactly enlarged . . . but which need some paring down and contraction . . . will react most favorably to the ingredients of this choice liquid.

HOLD THAT LINE!

And, if you like . . . you can use it as a throatline rejuvenator simply by saturating cotton pads generously and fastening them under the chin-line with a chin strap or a throat bandage. Its soothing qualities will hold that line in place.

But most important, its use after every cream cleansing will make the complexion satiny and smooth. The texture of the skin will be refined . . . the facial oil wells will be controlled . . . and the pores will be reduced to practical invisibility.

For the name of this unusual balsam freshener, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE FENCING jacket won't mind that fashion has reconverted it into a dramatic blouse style, as interesting as the model who wears it. Worn with jewels, it's a suave choice for evening . . . unadorned, a sophisticated team-mate for daytime suits or skirts. The back closing of this petal-textured Eastman koda crepe blouse makes a feature of tiny self-covered buttons as counterpart for the deep-set sleeves . . . R. M.

YOU MUST admit that lovely Lizabeth Scott does wonders for this white bathing suit as she basks on the sands of Santa Monica. But, confining our commentary to the area strictly above the chin-line . . . her face, too, is an enviable portrait of how you and you, and even I would like to look . . . with or without the ocean breezes fanning our countenance. For a similar goody . . . we give you a balsam freshener which keeps the complexion clean and oilfree and tends to refine large pores.

Let Cereals Boost Menus

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

THE WAY TO MAKE sure that your family starts off with a good breakfast in the morning is for you to plan ahead carefully—and time things so that each member not only sits down to a meal representing foods known to build and sustain energy, but actually allows time to enjoy the meal.

Prominent on the list of breakfast "musts" are fruit or fruit juice and a wholegrain or restored cereal with milk, bread and butter. If more is needed, add eggs or meats, or increase the portions.

The "main dish" of cereal may be varied in the breakfast menu. First of all, there are at least two dozen different kinds. Cereals may be crowned with seasonal fruit; combined with mixed diced or cooked fruit; and sweetened with brown sugar, honey, jelly, preserves or grated maple sugar. The dry cereals may be heated in the oven, if desired, and served with warm milk for a change.

FOR OTHER MEALS

Cereals are wisely used for lunches and other meals also. They make delicious cookies, muffins, breads, waffles, meat and cereal or fish and cereal loaves, pie crusts, versatile puddings, and unique stuffings for meats. Some enticingly different suggestions which lend themselves to "other meal" use are: Chop suey on toasted crumbled shredded wheat biscuits, lamb shoulder stuffed with well-seasoned cereal dressing, meat stew topped with light cereal dumplings, sauteed slices of cooked cereal served with tomato rarebit, fish filled with cereal stuffing, curried eggs on shredded wheat, etc.

In other words, reach for cereals when you need an able assistant to make a quick supper dish. Have your family sample the following thrifty, easy-to-get dishes and you will have requests for "repeats" for sure.

POTATO BURGERS

1 lb. ground beef
1½ cups mashed potatoes
1½ tsp. salt ¼ tsp. pepper
1-3 cup grated onion
1 egg, beaten
3 shredded wheat biscuits, finely rolled
¼ cup fat

Combine the beef, potatoes, salt, pepper, onion, egg and crumbs from two shredded wheat biscuits. Mix well. Shape in patties and roll in remaining shredded wheat crumbs. Fry patties in hot fat until golden brown. Makes 8 large patties.

SPANISH EGGS

1 clove of garlic
1 large tomato
1 tbsp. butter or margarine
6 eggs
¼ tsp. pepper
6 shredded wheat biscuits
Butter or margarine
1 tsp. salt

Rub garlic clove over inside of frying pan. Pare tomato and cut into small pieces. Melt butter in frying pan, add tomato and cook 5 minutes. Beat eggs well and add to tomatoes. Add seasoning. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until eggs are done. Dip shredded wheat in hot water; drain. Dot with butter. Top with eggs and serve piping hot.

SHREDDED WHEAT STUFFING

¼ to 5 shredded wheat biscuits, rolled fine (1 cup)
1 egg 1 tbsp. minced onion
1 tbsp. chopped celery leaves
¾ tsp. salt ⅛ tsp. pepper
⅛ tsp. poultry seasoning
2 tbsp. melted butter, margarine, or meat drippings
2-3 cup hot water

Beat egg slightly. Combine all ingredients and mix well. (About enough for stuffing 1 fish, 5 pork chops, or 5 veal "birds". Makes 1¼ cups.

Greeting Cards

DEAR Mrs. Beeckman:

How should a Christmas card or other greeting card be signed when the mother and daughter have the same first name? R. M.

Since informal greeting cards would be sent to relatives and friends, I shouldn't think it would be necessary to "explain" the second "Mary." Wouldn't it be understood that the Mary mentioned last is the daughter? If, however, Mary is a baby whose arrival is being announced by adding her name on the card, the names may be written, "John, Mary, Sally, and the new daughter Mary." "Jr." is a masculine suffix.

Siren Role

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been married three years, and my husband has been overseas for a year and a half. We were happy then, except that my cousin stepped in and has caused many quarrels between us. I'm very jealous of my husband, but she never knew that. She flirted outright with him and did everything to spite me. She was also in the habit of enticing him to drink, which I'm opposed to.

Now that he will be home from overseas, I wonder if she will do the same thing and cause our separation. How can I prevent this? HELPLESS.

Don't anticipate trouble; take a chance on your husband's being so glad to return to "normalcy" that the flirtatious cousin won't have a chance when he gets home. If this cousin is the siren you seem to think she is, why hasn't she provided herself with a man of her own while your husband has been away? Do the practical thing; don't show you resent the claim she tries to stake in your husband's affection, and help to find her a beau.

Some Pointers About Furs

By BETTINA BEDWELL

LAST WEEK I set down some pointers about taking care of that precious fur coat. This week I want to tell you something about your furs so you will know things you need to know about them.

If your coat keeps shedding hairs, you should take it back to your furrier and have him attend to it, but there may be some small shedding which is the result of hairs breaking off and you shouldn't let that scare you.

Sometimes a new fur coat will be guilty of crocking. If this happens to yours your furrier can relieve you of all further trouble on this score.

Furs fade, both the natural and dyed fur. They will do so in time if they are exposed to direct sunlight. This is gradual and generally not to be worried over. However, you better hang your coat in a closet that is dark, when you are not wearing it.

This Is My Story ★ ★ By Gen. Jonathan Wainwright

(Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in Whole or Part Strictly Prohibited)

Christmas of 1943, at Muksaq on Formosa, was hardly an old-time celebration. But it was so much better than our previous Christmas at Karenko that there can be no comparison. We were permitted to slaughter the first of our hogs, and though the Japs promptly moved in and took the hams, shoulders and chops, they left us with the head, feet and less delectable organs. On top of that the commander of the post sent us two small turkeys.

(In today's 35th article of his own story, Gen. Wainwright describes his Christmas at Muksaq Prison Camp and the outrageous treatment of American officers he left behind him at Tamazato.)

I had Sgt. Hubert Carroll, my orderly, come to my room and have Christmas dinner with me. He and the other enlisted men were as badly treated as all of us had been at Karenko, with the exception of the beatings. If possible, they were worked harder at Muksaq than at Karenko. They were so miserably housed that it made me ashamed of myself to have a little room of my own.

Muksaq lies 150 miles north of Karenko and farther inland. The winter we spent there was a bitter one, for our buildings were of loose, tropical construction. We were able to buy a little clothing out of our prisoner-of-war pay, and these clothes we wore over the Philippine summer uniforms we had brought with us into captivity.

When the weather turned good again, and my sacroiliac trouble was moderately cleared—it had originated several years before in an accident with my horse—I voluntarily went back to the job of looking after the animals. We had our pigs, a few chickens and we bought two milk goats. In the spring our sows and the goats produced young to add to our growing animal colony. We did our best to get some milk from the goats, but one was dry and the other gave only two small cups a day, despite the exertions of an expert milker, an English soldier named Ramwell, who had been a farmer in peacetime.

The Japs regularly took one of the two cups of milk and half of our eggs. The rest we gave to those most in need of this nourishment.

Letter From Wife

We were forced to repurchase such meat of ours as we slaughtered and were also charged for the milk, eggs and even the vegetables we grew. We tried to reason with the Japs on this, for it meant that we were buying these products, raising them, and then buying them again. But we never received a satisfactory answer and knew enough not to press the point too far, so grateful were we for not being beaten.

I received my first letter from my wife at this Muksaq camp. It came on May 1, 1944, and I read it so often that I nearly wore it out. I cannot tell you what it meant to me to hear from Adele after 29 months. I heard too from my son, another joyful day, and from worried parents of boys who had served under me and who were missing—terribly hard letters to which to find an adequate reply.

We oftened wondered what had happened to the 39 officers and men from whom we had been separated at Tamazato, and I eventually learned the details from Brig.-Gen. Lewis Beebe, who underwent their full ordeal.

The men were moved from Tamazato back to Karenko for two days, then sent by boat and rail around the northern end of Formosa to the east coast, and thence ridden and marched to Shirakawa Camp. It was in some ways worse than Karenko, for the men arrived during the rainy summer of 1943 and were given absolutely no protection against malarial mosquitoes for many days.

A number of serious cases of malaria soon developed at Shirakawa and in short order it had become a virtual epidemic.

Toiled Like Coolies

In the autumn of 1943, when the rains stopped, the officers were ordered to work on the Shirakawa prison farm and other projects. They were forced to construct a dam, and the earth had to be moved coolie-fashion in wicker baskets separated by a stick that rested on their shoulders. In the stifling late summer heat the men stripped down to their shorts, and when these were gone they tore up whatever clothing they had and made breech cloths. Their bony bodies became the color of mahogany. From generals to privates they were treated as utter slaves.

The sweet potatoes they raised were the first of their garden products to reach maturity. They had waited in great anguish to eat these, for they had been kept on their starvation diet of rice and water soup. But when the potatoes were picked the Japs took virtually all the harvest, most of it themselves, fed much of the remainder to the animals or permitted the potatoes to rot in sight of the men starving for them.

In June of 1944, Col. Sasawa brought an International Red Cross representative to Shirakawa. Near the end of the vigilantly-policed meeting one American officer broke loose and reported some shocking facts which were not on the Jap agenda. Col. Sasawa ushered the Red Cross man off the scene and shouted that the meeting was adjourned.

Food Cut Again

Sasawa returned two days later, called for 40 senior American officers, including all the generals, and lined them up.

"How many officers in this group do not want to work?" Sasawa demanded.

All but two raised their hands. Sasawa glared at the rest of the generals and colonels and angrily said, "You don't have to work if you don't want to!"

"Will we be punished if we don't work?" one of our generals asked.

"No, you won't," Sasawa answered. "You will not be punished."

But then he turned to the camp commander and ordered him to have lists made of all those who refused to work, another list prepared of all those who volunteered to work, and a third, of those engaged in administrative work at the camp who wished to continue on their jobs.

When the lists were compiled it was found that the American officers had voted almost solidly against work of any kind. Those few who did continue working were granted more food immediately. Just as immediately the food of the militant rebels was seriously cut.

Higgins to Hingham?--- Boat Builder Intrigued

By AUSTEN LAKE

ANDREW J. HIGGINS, New Orleans ship builder, is interested in taking a lease on the Hingham shipyard. He told the writer so over the long distance telephone from his New Orleans office. He was interested, he said, with a big "if." If his union troubles with the National Labor Relations Board and the A. F. of L. could be solved so that he could operate without what he terms union "abuses of the inalienable right to free enterprise."

Austen Lake

"Until that time," said Higgins, "I am not interested in moving or operating anywhere in America."

But he added, "I know more about Boston and New England than you imagine. I could give a fine sales talk on the advantages of that section for a boat builder like myself."

The writer asked: "If New England unions would agree to co-operate, would you consider Hingham as a Higgins' production base?" He said: "Yes, I would."

And there it lies! New England industrial boosters and our prosperity-minded statesmen can have the Higgins-to-Hingham thesis for the small charge of a 3c. a copy. It's their ball now!

It's a Natural

HIGGINS SAYS HE HAS some 30 million dollars worth of orders on hand for his quantity production, plywood pleasure craft called the "Junior PT." He said at least three million more in orders had been received since he closed his New Orleans plant. But he refuses to build a single unit, he said, until he is freed from factional disputes by unions and interference by the NLB. And he said it with a biting emphasis that was unmistakable.

Higgins said he had no knowledge of the Hingham Yard other than that it existed. He asked questions about its location and equipment. He wanted to know about union and labor conditions. He talked for about 20 minutes and ended by saying he would be "receptive to further conversations."

The vast Hingham yard, with its network of buildings, concrete surfaces, fabricating machinery, assembly lines, ways and warehouses, represents a government investment of more than $25,000,000. At the height of the war effort it was under lease to the Bethlehem Ship Building Corp. and employed some 20,000 persons. It is reckoned the best planned and constructed shipyard on the East Coast and, with the termination of its Bethlehem lease, is now being prepared to become a forlorn skeleton of its former beehive production.

Fewer than a thousand workers are employed there now. The last boat was delivered to the government last September. There is no production and the scanty few who remain are busy taking final inventory before the government takes custody of its mammoth war baby for a storage depot of odds, ends and trifles. The great fellowship of workers who lived in newly-built settlements or who came pouring in torrential motor streams from surrounding areas are largely idle and beginning to scatter to other work opportunities.

And Hingham, unless the enterprise of Boston and New England brains can save it, faces the mournful fate that befell the old Liberty Plant at Squantum after World War I. For every South Shore commuter remembers the ghostly bulk of the big shipbuilding plant as it stood silhouetted against the sky and fell prey to the wind and elements in the early '20's. Storms scaled off its sheathings! Silt sifted into its concrete lagoon! Its only tenants were bats and field mice until at last the government wrecked what was left and filled in the site for a Naval Air Field. It was a sinkhole to uncounted millions in taxpayers' money and served only a temporary, expensive purpose.

HINGHAM MAY, IN YEARS to come, deteriorate the same way and become a mere unit in the wastage of left-over war utilities—unless New England labor, management, politics and industrial intelligence manage to improvise with someone like Higgins, who would in no way compete or interfere with the ship-building markets of the giant, neighboring Fore River plant, where only Navy and large vessels are constructed. It looks like a natural!

How far New England unions will lean to bring so important a means of mass employment to this region is for the unions and our New England congressional bloc to determine. For as the writer told Higgins today New England has not been beset by the same broadscale union agitation and unrest that has assailed other industrial centers of the country.

Our bitter experience during the rabid textile strikes of 20 years ago may have taught their lesson. For it cost New England billions in absentee trade and untold thousands in unemployment when many of the larger mills moved away from our neighborhood and went south. Lackadaisical statecraft, lethargic promotion and unco-operative unionism has cost our region its right to a brighter spot in the nation's industrial sun. The horoscope of our future is predicated in the skies of the past.

HIGGINS TOLD ME, "I believe firmly in the rights and dignities of labor and my record proves it. But I cannot tolerate un-American fascist monopolies by minority groups, whether management, political or union. I'm willing to make concessions in return for equal concessions and ask that bargains be fulfilled according to agreed terms. That's my labor credo and when the unions will assume equal responsibility with management and invested capital, under intelligent self and government control, we'll resume business—whether here, or in Boston or elsewhere. But not until."

That's the origin and gist of the Higgins to Hingham project! Let's see who carries the ball from here, and how well.

Eagles Regain Bennett; Harvard Fears Brown

By HERB FINNEGAN

There was good news at BC's aerie today. First, X-rays showed no break in Charlie Bennett's leg, and the fleet halfback, if not ready for Saturday's game with Scranton at Fenway Park, surely will face Holy Cross a week later.

Second, Mat Ruggerio, 200-pound guard injured in the Brown game, will be available for the remaining two games; third, Steve Helstowski, his nose broken against Villanova, will be able to play with the aid of a mask, fourth, Willie De Rosa injured in practice last week, also will be on hand.

Ace Parker

Only sad note at the Heights was that Vic Palladino, guard on the '41 BC team must undergo an immediate throat operation and will not be available for either Scranton or HC.

"The boys are responding nicely," said Coach Sarno, whose job the next two weeks is a most unenviable one. "They're determined to wind up their season in winning fashion, and they're working hard." BC was beaten by ings Point and Villanova in the last two games

HARVARD—No scrimmaging is the order again this week as the Crimson prepares for its game with Brown at Providence Saturday. Injuries to Jenkins, Woggan, Pierce, Swegan and Flynn leave the Crimson ranks thin. It was announced that Frank Le Bart, point-kicking guard who was almost blinded against Kings Point, would be available. The Crimson expects to field the same team against Brown, with the exception of Flynn, that started against Kings Point. That will be: DiLuzio and Champion, ends; Fisher and Coan, tackles; Dewey and Le Bart, guards; Faber, center; Tennant qb, Cowan fb, Roche and Fritts or O'Donnell, halfbacks.

Brown, which reached its peak against Yale, will field the following eleven: Grimshaw and Spriggs, ends; Lalakos and Blotstein or Rowley, tackles; Iacule and Morris or Kako, guards; Schuster, center; Lisi, qb; Diehl, fb; Mesch and Lyons, halfbacks.

BROWN WORRIES HARVARD

Harvard has reason to be worried about Brown. When tailbacks Kavazanjian and Netski were injured in the Yale game, a stranger named Bob Mesch took over and actually defeated the Elis. Brown seems to have depth in all departments and is well-coached by Rip Engel, specializing in traps, sweeps and long passes.

YANKS—Mike Micka, Colgate's great fullback in the early '40's and a member of the Redskins since '44, has been purchased by the Yanks and will be ready to face Green Bay at Fenway Park Sunday. Micka, a fine prospect, had to give way when Dick Todd and Merl Condit joined the Redskins from the service . . . Coach Herb Kopf evidently has given up on Ace Parker as a quarterback in his Q-T formation, for he now has the league's most valuable player in '40 running and passing from the fullback position. He plans to work two backfields as units Sunday with George Cafego feeding the ball to Manders, Grigas and Davis, Gudmundson feeding the ball to Dimancheff, Parker and Mathews . . . Like Sammy Baugh last year, Parker is having difficulty handling the ball under center. He passes far better from the fullback position . . . Fullback Frank Sachse left the Yanks to attend his ailing father in Texas, but is expected back for the Green Bay game.

Wilson Hits 6

Davs Wilson, king of the New England handicappers and chief specialist on the Green Sports Special edition of the American named six winners on the eight race card at Rockingham for his fans yesterday.

Wilson winners which included the $25 daily double were: Minami, $9.80, in the 1st; Vassallo, $4, in the 2nd; Bee W. Bee, $9.40, in the 3d; Noahvale, $13.40, in the 7th and Boom On, $9.20, in the last.

Wilson moves over to Pimlico when the New England meet ends Saturday and his graded form there will appear exclusively in the Green Sports Special starting next Monday.

Trade School Surge Too Late to Pay Off

By MIKE GILLOOLY

It's too late for Boston Trade School to capture the city championship but Coach Harry Tilton would trade anything if he could turn the calendar back to the start of the season with the high flying outfit that he'll be sending against Roxbury Memorial today.

The mechanics of Trade have taken four games in which to master the mechanics of the T offense, but now Coach Tilton is convinced that they'd be odds-on favorites for the title if the team hadn't been so green.

Trade has racked up 43 points in two games since the first of November, swamping Public Latin (18-0) and then crushing Commerce (25-7). Previously, the Traders, with only three seniors in the starting line-up, had deadlocked Middlesex (6-6), lost to Dorchester (6-0), dumped Charlestown (13-0) and then fell victim to English (12-0). But now, Coach Tilton would give anything to replay the Dorchester and English contests!

He's consoling himself with the fact that nine of this starting group will be back next fall. He'll miss his co-captains, Dick Stahley, tackle and Hal Thompson, halfback, but he has capable replacements working into the line-up in both the line and backfield to fill these vacancies. And even now, he's predicting a top-notch title contender for next fall.

1946 PROSPECTS ROSY

With the graduation of Stahley, Coach Tilton will have a pair of replacements in Charlie Gill, 175-pound sophomore, and John Azulay, 176-pound junior. Both have been gaining experience this fall, Gill replacing the 210-pound captain, and Azulay substituting for regular Sam Rubin, 190-pound veteran and the third senior on the squad.

And for reserve strength, Trade has a pair of sophomores in Bob Bascom, 151, and Leonard Johnson, 141, to juggle into the ends for regulars Steve Mirachi, 165, and Fred Police, 185. Mirachi and Police, both juniors, were originally slated for the backfield so that if the sophs come along, they can be shifted. Police is the top punter on the squad.

In the backfield, Coach Tilton has been working Hal Crosby, 125-pound soph, and Tony Mastandrea, 131-pound junior, as replacements for his first stringers, looking forward to the time when he'll lose Hal Thompson, 175-pound "punch" in the ball carrying department. Both work regularly on defensive.

The center of the Trade line will be back next fall. This trio, to face Boston Tech in the objective game next week, are guards Syl Mills, 176-pound junior, and Joe Kane, another junior at 158 pounds, and center Nino Tramontozzi, 145. Tramantozzi's brother, Tom, played for Coach Tilton's title club of 1941.

Present backfield starters who will be back and who have made the team click recently are Paul Hourihan, 150-pound qb, Dick Jackson, 144-pound sprinter, and Al Flateau, 153-pound fb.

Brimsek's Return Gives Bruins Title Support

By JACK CONWAY

NOW THAT Frankie Brimsek has received his discharge from the Coast Guard and is preparing to report to the Bruins next week, Art Ross' club will have an excellent chance to win the National Hockey League championship and go on to take the Stanley Cup . . . The most glaring weakness in the Bruins since Brimsek entered service has been at goal . . . Ross tried numerous players at this position, but none of them measured up to Brimsek as a goalie.

Frankie Brimsek

At the age of 30 Brimsek will require considerable practice to get himself in the best of condition . . . Frankie had the advantage of playing hockey on the Coast Guard team, and, while the competition was not always of the highest, he was able to keep in good condition . . . Ross did not believe Brimsek would return to the lineup before the early part of 1946 . . . Art will have his star goalie back six weeks to two months earlier than expected . . . The Bruins will now win many close games which they would lose with some other goalie on the job.

Hockey, the first major sport to get back on a pre-war basis as far as star players is concerned, is going to have the biggest season in its history . . . All early attendance records have been shattered.

The Bruins are loaded with star material . . . This week the club has been able to get in a great deal of practice at the Arena, while the rodeo holds forth at the Garden . . . With its modern ice plant, the Arena is able to offer new ice to the Bruins for each practice session.

Pretzie to Get Test

ONE WILL have a very good idea as to what one may expect from Johnny Pretzie, Watertown heavyweight, after one sees him in action against Cliff Mann of Florida in a 10-round bout at the Sharkey A. A. show at the Arena tomorrow night . . . Mann is a rugged two-fisted fighter and has had considerable boxing experience . . . He is under the management of Jimmy Johnston, who has been successful with many mitt wielders.

Pretzie has had weak opposition in his Boston bouts since getting out of service, and it has been impossible to tell just how good a fighter he is . . . Pretzie has an explosive punch, and he feels he will be able to land it on Mann's chin . . . If he does, Mann is likely to hit the canvas.

Just a Lucky Guy--Ferriss

GREENWOOD, Miss., Nov. 15 (AP)—Dave "Boo" Ferriss, Boston Red Sox hurler, characterizes himself as "just a lucky guy."

Speaking at a banquet in his honor last night, Ferriss described his climb to the majors as "just a boyhood dream come true."

"I had always dreamed of playing where they had the best diamonds, the best players and the best equipment. My dream came true," he said.

The dinner, sponsored by Minter City, a small cotton town, 18 miles south of Greenwood, was described as a just a "get-together of Delta folks to honor a fine boy."

'Rick' Sells Auto Track To Hulman for $750,000

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 15 (AP)—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, daredevil of the auto tracks 30 years ago, will be only a visitor from the aviation business when the speedsters compete May 30 in their first 500-mile race since 1941.

"Rick" sold the 2½-mile Indianapolis motor speedway yesterday to Anton Hulman, Jr., Terre Haute, Ind., sportsman and financier, for a price reported about $750,000. Rickenbacker bought the plant in 1927 for $700,000.

The colorful captain, who went back to automobiles after shooting down 21 German airplanes and five balloons in the first World War, had to make a choice between his first love and his job as president of Eastern Air Lines.

The new management will be familiar to auto racing fans. Hulman, who will be chairman of the board, announced appointment of Wilbur Shaw, thrice winner of the Memorial Day classic, as president and general manager. Old-Timer T. E. (Pop) Myers will remain as vice-president.

The new owner heads the Clabber Girl Baking Powder Company and owns real estate and utilities throughout the Midwest. He has been an avid sportsman since starring in track, football, and rowing at Yale.

The Terre Haute capitalist said the speedway plant would be improved immediately in preparation for the 1946 renewal of the race.

Holmes Trails Cavaretta

Phil Cavarretta, who was born and raised in the shadow of Chicago's Wrigley Field, was the home town hero today as the National League's most valuable player for 1945.

The hard-hitting Cubs' first-sacker reached the pinnacle of his 11-year major league career when a committee representing the baseball writers voted him the annual most valuable award and the second annual Landis memorial plaque.

As captain of the 1945 National League champs, Phil hit .355 in 132 games to annex the loop batting crown. His record included 33 doubles, 10 triples and six four-ply smashes.

Tommy Holmes, the Braves' free-hitting gardener who set a new modern National League record by hitting safely in 37 consecutive games, was runner-up to Cavarretta. Holmes polled 175 voting points, including three firsts, but he was far in arrears of the winner, who hauled down 15 firsts and seven second-place ballots to total 279 out of a possible 336 points.

Third place in the balloting went to pitcher Charlie "Red" Barrett, who started the season with the Braves and ended up with the Cardinals and 23 notches in his victory belt.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

By Jimmy Hatlo

HENRY- YOU AND EFFIE GOTTA COME UP TO THE HOUSE AND HEAR OUR NEW ELECTRIC PHONOGRAPH. I KNOW YOU GO FOR THAT LONG-HAIR STUFF--WE GOT A SWELL COLLECTION OF CLASSICAL RECORDS THAT'LL KNOCK YOUR HAT OFF--
O.K.- LET'S GO-
OH, GRAND! WE LOVE MUSIC-- GOOD MUSIC--
SMEDLEY'S BEEN WANTING TO SHOW OFF HIS HIS NEW PARLOR JUKE BOX TO THESE FOLKS FOR WEEKS

So ALL THEY HEARD WAS CHIN MUSIC ALL NIGHT LONG—
Thank You W. EDMUND PETERS SALEM, O.
GET A LOAD OF THAT FORTISSIMO! LA DE LA DE DA-- NOW GET THIS PART-- YOU KNOW THE STORY OF THIS OPERA, DON'CHA?
NOW LISTEN. HEAR THAT?
GOOD, HUH?
DON'T YOU JUST LOVE TONYA TONSYL? I ALWAYS WANTED TO BE A SINGER. DO YOU PLAY AT ALL? I'M MAKING THE CHILDREN TAKE LESSONS.

Vain Wait

This throng is part of an estimated crowd of 30,000 persons who jammed a vacant lot in the Bronx last night waiting for a miracle which 9-year-old Joseph Vitolo, Jr., said had been promised by a vision of the Virgin Mary. They saw no miracle.

Ga-reeted!

The nine children and wife of Stephen Vernoy surround daddy at Orange, Cal., to give him a gala greeting on their arrival after a train trip from Lathrop, Mo. Vernoy, partially disabled, was discharged recently from the Army. The children range in age from 13 to 2.
